PARTICULARS OF EXPORT TRADE COURSE

Given by McGill Co-operating With Dept. of Trade

JAN. 29th—Feb. 10th

Comprehensive List of Subjects Covered

A favorable list of applications and letters asking for information concerning the Extension Course in Export Trade has already been received by the Registrar, Dr. Nicholson from representatives of many of the large business houses both within and without Montreal, including Levesque & Fortier, Ltd., Victoriaville, Que.; Lovell & Christmas (Canada) Limited, Montreal; Scofield Paper Company, St. John, N.B.; Northern Electric Company, Montreal; Caron Brothers, Montreal; Mendelsohn Brothers, Montreal; James Richardson & Sons, Limited, Montreal; Dominion Textile Company, Limited, Montreal; Wilson, Paterson & Gifford, Limited, Montreal; H. R. Silver, Limited, Halifax, N.S. (Montreal Branch); Watson, Foster Company, Montreal; Dominion Glass Company, Limited, Montreal.

This course, which was suggested by Mr. H. R. Pousette, Director of the Commercial Intelligence Service, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, is to be given by McGill, with the co-operation of the Department and of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It is intended primarily for export managers, prospective export managers and all those engaged in export trade but others interested are invited to enrol. It is an intensive course of two weeks' duration, and the instruction has the twofold purpose of introducing the hearers to the underlying principles of export trade and of making them familiar with the practical details of management. With these aims in view it has been divided into two sections: I. Lectures on the General Economics of Trade, given by professors of McGill University; and II. Demonstrations, discussions and addresses on Special Trade Topics, given by officers of the Department of Trade and Commerce or professors in the School of Commerce of McGill. The two types of instruction supplement one another, and brief though the period is, they are sufficiently comprehensive to cover all the important phases of the subject. They will put those attending the classes in touch with the latest developments in export trade in Canada, and will demonstrate the vast possibilities open to Canadian exporters in all parts of the world.

EAST END HELD FOR McJILL CLUB

Rooters at Arena at 7:30 Tonight

All the three thousand rooters at McGill are expected out tonight. The rooters' club leaders will be at the rink ready to lead the mob and despite the approaching festivities it is hoped that every student with the least bit of the old McGill spirit in him will be at the rink to back up the future champions. With the Rugby season far behind and a win to their credit on the ice the team are all set to win. Last year at the Queen's game the help of the rooters, who yelled themselves hoarse until in the second overtime period the rubber went tearing into the nets from the stick of one of the Red and White players, was a great factor in the victory. Whether this will be the result tonight is still an undetermined factor but the team will be able to hold the pace longer with the college all behind them. In an interview with an executive of the Rooters' Club last night the statement was made that every rooster is expected to do his duty tonight, and be at the rink.

On Wednesday the rooters were there, but not in full force. The next home game is three weeks away, so that it will be the last time to see the McGill aggregation on the ice till the results of the tussle for the honors are almost certain.

"Nuts" Nutting, "Bub" Davies and "Jeff" Harding will lead "Thundering Thousands."

WHAT'S ON

TO-DAY.

12:00-1:00—Class Hockey: Sci. '23 vs. Sci. '24.
1:00—Science '26 meeting.
1:15—Basketball players at Bonaventure Station.
2:15-3:15—Class Hockey: Dent. '23-'24 vs. Dent. '25-'26.
2:30—Wrestling practice.
3:30—Junior Hockey: McGill vs. Westmount.
5:00—Cosmopolitan Club.
8:15—Hockey: Queen's vs. McGill.

COMING.

January 23rd—Glee Club.
January 24th—Senior Executives.
January 26th—Informal at Union.

QUEENS TEAM IN TOWN FOR HOCKEY GAME

McGill Opposes Tri-color at Arena Tonight

SECOND GAME

Kingstonians Expected to Put Strong Team on Ice

The Queen's University hockey team arrived in Montreal this morning and are ready to take on the Red and White skaters at the Mount Royal Arena tonight.

The McGill team got away to an auspicious start in the Intercollegiate League by taking the measure of the Montreal University entry and feel confident of their ability to keep the slate clean by annexing the second match on the schedule.

With excellent ice available during the entire week the local team has been driven through a series of brisk workouts and during the last few days a marked improvement has been noticed in their play. The U. of M. contest disclosed a number of weaknesses, most prominent of which perhaps was lack of combination play. Coach Frank Shaughnessy has given the players a great deal of passing practice and a higher grade of team work should be furnished in tonight's game.

The make-up of the team will be much the same as that which took the ice on Wednesday night. Morris will guard the McGill goal, with Dempsey and McGerrigle on the defence. "Pinky" Morrison, who proved to be the star in the U. of M. game, will start at centre, while Captain Cyril Flanagan, whose condition is reported to be improved, will perform at right wing. Who will be the third forward has not yet been definitely announced. McNaughton gave a good account of himself on Wednesday and is fighting hard for the position. Proulx, the latest addition to the squad, is another left-hander who is showing a great measure of ability. This lad, who captained the Ottawa College team last year, appears to be an excellent stick-handler but he has only been out on the ice a few days and has not yet rounded into condition. When he does round into shape a great deal may be expected of him. Bell, Munro and Sid Davis will all very likely be given an opportunity of showing their wares against the Presbyterian sextette tonight.

Oregon.—Seven special winter courses have been made by the agricultural department of the college for farmers who desire special instruction during the winter months. The short courses comprise the following: An 11 weeks' course in tractor mechanics, an 11 weeks' course in general agriculture, a 4 weeks' course in dairy manufacturing, a short course in horticultural products, and a one week course in bee culture.

WARNING

The officers of organizations in college who have not yet handed in their programme of events for the second team are warned that the committee in charge of schedules have the power to refuse the use of the Daily for announcement purposes and the use of the Union for meetings.

These programmes must be in the hand of the committee by Tuesday, January 16. Leave them with the Porter in the Tuck Shop, care of B. C. Rochester.

FACTS ABOUT PHYSICAL ED. COMMITTEE

Dr. Jeakins Explains Composition and Duties of Board

FORMED IN '19

Has Supreme Control of Athletics at University

The following article by the Secretary of the Standing Committee on Physical Education will prove interesting to many McGill readers:

"I have been asked by the 'McGill Daily' to prepare an article on the Standing Committee on Physical Education—its composition and its duties. The following facts may help to some extent to dissipate the mists which, as far as the undergraduate is concerned, usually shroud the activities of the various University Committees.

"In the Autumn of 1919 following the general reorganization which took place at the end of the War, the Standing Committee on Physical Education was created to replace the old Grounds and Athletics Committee and all other Committees of Corporation (of which several were in existence) dealing with physical training or athletics.

"The duties of the new committee were similar to the duties of the old Athletics Committee but their scope was enlarged. The present Committee is the body in supreme control of athletics and all things pertaining to athletics at the University. It is charged with the administration of physical education, including the management of the University gymnasium (when it arrives). It manages the Stadium (through a representative of the Graduates' Stadium Committee) and the McGill School of Physical Education. It supervises the Health Service and the Women's Hostel.

"To be more explicit in connection with athletics, the following are some of the things that the Committee does:

- (1) It approves constitutions for new formed clubs of the Athletics Association.
  - (2) It ratifies sanctions given by the Athletic Association to teams making trips, other than those called for in the regular intercollegiate schedules.
  - (3) It confirms the appointment of all coaches.
  - (4) It imposes regulations with regard to the physical examination of students.
  - (5) It approves the minutes of the Athletic Association.
  - (6) It has charge of the rinks.
  - (7) It has charge of the Stadium finances, which include receipts from football games. And it deals with a hundred and one other matters concerned with athletics. This will suffice to give a fair idea of the duties of this body. The composition of the Committee is as follows:—

JUNIORS TO PLAY WESTMOUNT TODAY

The Game Starts Promptly at Three-Thirty

The McGill Junior Hockey Club meets the Westmount Juniors this afternoon at 3:30 in a scheduled City League game. Last Saturday the Juniors played a draw game with Nationals, and since then have shown considerable improvement at practices. They are out for a win this afternoon and would seem to have a very fair chance of success.

This is, of course, only the second game for the Juniors and they therefore are not to be expected to be in mid-season form, but there are growing indications that they will be in a fair way to repeat last year's performance and take another championship before many days have passed. The following men will turn out today: Munro, Fairbanks, Hyman, Goldie, Murphy, Galley, Abbot, Gordon, Bright, and any who have been turning out.

With today's issue the "Daily" will cease publication until after the examinations. The next issue will be published on Monday, January 22nd.

Sporting Trophies

"To the Victor, The Spoils"

The contest gains an added zest when it is known that the victors' trophy is to be one of the famous Mappin & Webb's designs.

In addition to a large stock of the well-known, established designs in cups, shields and medals, we offer many designs which are out of the ordinary.

These are suitable for all branches of sports.

Again—the Mappin & Webb establishment is prepared to design and execute special sporting trophies, to order.

PHILOSOPHERS TO MEET JANUARY 24

D. J. Clarke Lectures on Concepts of 'Matter & Energy'

The next open meeting of the Philosophical Society will be held in Strathcona Hall on Wednesday, January 24th, at 8 p.m. Mr. R. J. Clark, of the Department of Physics, will deliver a paper on "Concepts of Matter and Energy."

Mr. Clark is well known as a student of the fundamental ideas of physics. His knowledge of philosophy, however, will enable him to discuss his subject not only with the rigour and exactness which is characteristic of the mathematical sciences, but also with the critical and speculative outlook which marks the philosophic state of mind.

The subject, "Concepts of Matter and Energy," should prove interesting to many. Till recently, matter was thought of by physicists as something with no properties other than inert energy, on the other hand, was an intangible thing which acting on matter, produced the endless round of phenomena. Eventually the question was asked, "If matter and energy have no properties in common, how can one affect the other? And if such an interaction is a logical impossibility, how must we modify the traditional views of matter and energy?"

Officers of instruction and students are cordially invited to attend.

The magistrate was disposing of his morning docket. "Ha," he cried, looking up sourly at his next victim; "Illicit still!"

"No. Again, your Honour," said the would-be wag;—and was given lots of time to think up another one.

TO HOLD NATIONAL MEET AT MCGILL

Can. Interscholastic Track Meet to Be at Stadium

The first Canadian National Scholastic Track Championship meet will be held next spring under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union, and will take place at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium. This meet is a development arising out of the McGill Track Club's holding of Interscholastic meets during the past two years, the schools sending teams being located in various parts of Ontario and Quebec. At the recent meeting of all the representatives of the A.A.U. held in Montreal the scheme of a National School track meet was discussed and practically adopted, and it is now announced that the first meet is awarded to McGill. The place of holding the meet will of course be varied from year to year as determined by the A.A.U.

The two meets already held under the management of the McGill Club have been very keenly contested and successful in every way. A large number of institutions were represented, both from the Montreal district and as far west as Hamilton. With the winning of the meet carrying with it the Canadian championship, it is to be expected that schools from all parts of the country will send teams, with a consequent stimulated interest and keener competition.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY HEAR MR. HOWARD

Excellent Lecture on Elements in Earth's Crust

"The Primary Distribution of Elements in the Earth's Crust" was the subject of an interesting lecture by Mr. W. V. Howard before the McGill Chemical Society yesterday afternoon. The speaker pointed out the difficulties of obtaining exact knowledge concerning the earth's crust owing to the fact that the deepest mines penetrate only a relatively short distance. However, volcanoes, meteorites, hot springs and igneous rocks were sources from which much knowledge could be derived, the latter being comparable to enormous chemical laboratories in which reactions take place at pressures and temperatures unknown in ordinary chemical reactions.

It was found that the magma when solidified from volcanoes has a chemical composition similar to that of well known igneous rocks such as granite. It was possible to assume, therefore, that the igneous rocks once existed in the form of a molten magma below the earth's surface. There was evidence to show that if the magma is intruded from great depths rocks containing heavier constituents make their appearance. It was possible, therefore, to predict the association of elements in minerals from their position in the periodic table and the zone of the magma as deposited. The association has been proven from the analysis of rocks and minerals.

The examination of meteorites which are said to be representative of the original magma which has not undergone as much differentiation as the earth's crust indicates that the atomic number of the element is a factor in association of the elements. Harkins had been the first to point out that the elements having even atomic numbers constitute ninety-eight percent of the meteorites, and this application could be applied within limits to the earth's crust in the lowest zone. In the upper layers Harkins' generalization no longer holds, since the odd numbered elements are the most abundant.

The President of the Society, Dr. A. B. Macallum, conveyed the thanks of the Society to Mr. Howard for his interesting address.

SWIMMING CLUB PROSPECTS IMPROVE

Many New Members Are Developing Rapidly

The members of the Swimming Club are hard at it, practising for the meet with Varsity which is to take place about the second week in February. The mid-year exams have proved somewhat of an obstacle in the preparations but in spite of that, and of the fact that a large percentage of the men are new at the work, Coach Vernon thinks that our prospects look bright for the coming meet. It seems likely that the speed events, the 220-yard and the relay race will be a greater success than the more fancy stuff. Two of the club's most famous members, one of them the Canadian champion diver, and the other a noted man on back stroke, were graduates last year, and however good new men may be they cannot be expected to take the places of those who have had such a long experience and practice. The polo team has also been entirely reorganized and its new members are progressing very favourably. It is as yet uncertain what men will occupy the important positions in either the swimming events or the polo game. Their names will doubtless be announced later before the team leaves for Toronto. The return meet will be at Montreal during the first week in March. The swimmers have high hopes of success and it is to be trusted that they have their hopes realized.

ANNOUNCE RESULTS OF BAR EXAMINATIONS

The results of the Bar examinations of the Province of Quebec held recently were announced yesterday. The list, as will be seen, contains the names of several McGill graduates of recent years in the Faculty of Law. The names of the successful candidates who are now entitled to practise Law are: Bourgot Bruno, Gordon Pender, D. E. Rioux, W. S. Lighthall, J. A. Savage, E. B. A. Buchanan, W. S. Mercier, G. K. Mergler, Shulenson, Holtham, C. C. Phelan, Leonard Trepanier, L. LaCombe, C. E. Dorion, W. Roy Dillon, J. G. Nicholson, Hague, P. Thibodeau, J. E. Ferron, J. E. Rivard, L. Fanteaux, Alf. Fournier, S. A. Schulman and C. L. De Martigny.

OUR "EXCHANGES"

Scarcity of campus news during the last few days has obliged the "Daily" to rely mainly upon "exchanges" for material with which to fill its columns.

A temporary cessation of a great many undergraduate activities is a necessary consequence of the approach of examinations and the advisability of study for them. The result has been a forced dependence upon news gleaned from "exchanges", thirty or forty of which reach the "Daily" office every day. While in one light, lack of local "copy" may be regrettable, it nevertheless enables prominence to be given to happenings of importance and interest in other colleges. The greater part of this is, naturally, from American centres owing to the fact that there are in existence in the United States numerous colleges as contrasted with the comparatively limited number of universities in Canada; also, the circumstance that, with the exception of the McGill Daily, there are no college dailies in Canada, renders the procuring of news from this latter source even more difficult, not only because of the infrequency of its appearance, but likewise because news in its real sense—carrying with it the quality of freshness—is much more apt to be absent than present in a weekly or semi-weekly publication. Whenever possible Canadian news is featured, but it is not thought that it would be justifiable to exclude American items of concern when the former is not obtainable, especially as McGill has found ties with our Southern neighbours no less sincere than those which associate her with the universities of Canada.

THE DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The explanation contained in today's issue of the scope and powers of the Department of Physical Education, so readily prepared by the Secretary of the Graduates' Society when requested by the "Daily", will prove a welcome source of information to the students of the University who, as the writer states, have long been in a quandary as to the relations which exist between this body, the college authorities and the various undergraduate athletic clubs under the head of the Athletic Association. The present system has much to be desired in the way of simplicity and faculty for co-ordination, but it must be remembered that the difficulties in the road of complete centralization of the authority necessary to govern and to decide upon the many matters that come up for adjudication are considerable. In time such will doubtless be accomplished but in the meantime the best must be made of the existing arrangements. The case mentioned in this column some time ago in which a man was suspended by one body, only to be reinstated by the other, was ample proof of the insufficiency of the present practices.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This editorial is specially addressed to those persons who, in their overwhelming desire to acquit themselves well in the examinations that are approaching, are guilty of an infringement upon the rules of polite society and of good conduct. What we have in mind specifically is the disappearance of reference books from the shelves of the Redpath Library.

This habit, always pernicious enough in its effects, becomes particularly virulent as exams approach. Those who are guilty of this offence are worthy of the most scathing criticism at the hands of their fellow students—such conduct is unworthy a scholar and a gentleman. We sincerely hope that some of those who are guilty will cast their eyes over the contents of this note. A sense of shame may, we hope, lead them to change their ways in the future.

Tonight the McGill Hockey Team will meet that of Queen's at the Mount Royal Arena. Last Wednesday McGill defeated the University of Montreal on the same ice, and indications are most propitious for a hard-fought contest this evening. There was one department, however, in which McGill was hopelessly outclassed at the last game; that was in the sphere of "rooting". The French students wakened the echoes with their hearty yells and loud-toned band, while McGill sat quiescent—comparatively speaking—hopelessly scattered, unorganized and without a band. Yet there was not a man or co-ed among that crowd that would not have readily given encouragement to the team had there been effective leadership. Tonight we meet Queen's; it is to be hoped that they will return to Kingston with the memory of well-timed Queen's and McGill yells ringing in their ears. It is up to the Rooters' Club to accomplish this end. We want to win tonight; but win or lose, we want to make a noise about it.

LETTERS FOR BUCKEYES

Ohio State.—One hundred Varsity "O's" and 21 "OAA's" were awarded Buckeye athletes during 1921. Of the "O" awards, 30 were given as a reward for football services, eight for wrestling, eight for basketball, 14 for baseball, 16 for track, eight for cross-country, seven for tennis, five for rifle-shooting, and four for gymnastics.

HANDBALL

Harvard.—In a desire to promote the playing of handball as a form of exercise among the upper-classesmen of the University, a progressive handball tournament has been started in Hemmway Gymnasium. The men are ranked according to their ability. Any competitor can challenge any man who is above him in the list, and, if he wins, changes places with the defeated man. The winner will be the one who leads the list when the tournament ends.

BIG WINTER REGISTRATION

Utah.—One hundred new students have registered at the "U" for the winter quarter, bringing the total enrollment up to 2,435. At the end of the autumn quarter there were 2,335 students enrolled. This number corresponds very closely to the number registered for the autumn quarter last year, the number then being 2,323. As the standard of scholarship has been raised on account of higher entrance requirements. Prominent among the new students to register are J. E. Anchondo, the Mexican consul in Salt Lake City; Alexander Ponomareff, who hails from Russia, and Singh Bahendar, who calls India his home.

COACH RESIGNS

U. of Wisconsin.—The University football club experienced a rather rude shock last week by the resignation of their chief football coach in the person of Coach Richards. Not only did this come as a complete surprise to the students but the heads of the department of Physical Education were taken aback as well. Coach Richards will take up legal work in San Francisco.

MUSICAL COMEDY

Boston University.—Preliminaries done away with and official sanction having been given by the University authorities for the second annual all-B.U. show, activities started last week. The play selected this year is a musical comedy having three acts and thirteen principal leads. It is planned to have the play put on two nights in Boston and then to undertake a road trip.

$250,000 CAMPAIGN

U. of Florida.—A campaign has been started for a Y.M.C.A. recreation building. Professors as well as students will be asked to contribute. The contributions from the members of the faculty will be from three to five per cent of their salaries. It is expected that at least ten per cent of the full amount will be raised right in the college.

DEAN HONOURED

U. of Iowa.—Harry Craig Jones, dean of the College of Law, has been elected president of the Association of American Law Schools. Dean Jones has been secretary-treasurer of the Association for three years. He succeeds James Parker Hall of Chicago.

AUTOMATIC SHOWERS

Toronto.—The reckless waste of hot water in the past has caused considerable inconvenience to the greater portion of the student body. Under the old system a student turned on the hot water before commencing his ablutions and turned it off afterwards. The result was that by 5 in the afternoon the water in the showers became cold. No heating plant devised could under such a system provide instantaneous hot water at the time of the "Peak Load" which in the gymnasium is between 4 and 6 in the afternoon. To avoid this inconvenience new valves have been installed which automatically close on the student leaving the shower booth. Students are urged to co-operate in this movement towards their own comfort, and to consider their unfortunate fellow students who can only use the gymnasium in the late afternoon. The valves must not be tampered with in any way, and a violation of this regulation will render a member liable to suspension from the privileges of the gymnasium.

DRAMATICS

Carnegie Institute of Technology.—Carnegie's little theatre is to become a member of a New National Theatrical Circle. The purpose of this new organization is to join amateur and professional actors for the furtherance of the dramatic art.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir.—Where was the rooter's band at last Wednesday's game? Will it be there tonight as well?

Yours truly,

FROSH.

FLATTERY

Arthur was the perfection of indecision. In the morning he often spent as much as an hour deciding whether he would wear black shoes or brown, and in the matter of ties he was forced sometimes to resort to the centimetry-miny-mo method of selection. He never wrote letters because he could not decide what to say and on one occasion he stood for forty minutes upon a street corner wondering whether it would be better to walk down or take a street car. Both Sarah and Geraldine—Heaven knows why—were in love with him. Arthur spent many months of anxious worry, while trying to decide which was his affinity. Then Geraldine told him that she admired his capacity for quick judgment and action. He married Geraldine.

BASKETEERS STILL PRACTISING HARD

Red and White Seniors in Splendid Shape

The senior basketball team held a hard practice in the High School last night. With only a few men out for practice the teams lined up with four men from the seniors and five men from the intermediates. The resulting scrimmage gave plenty of work to all on the floor, including the referee. The five man team had the better of the play for the first few minutes but when the Manson, Little, Amarion, Crain combination started action there was plenty of it. Little, whose adept handling of the ball, has already made him famous in parts of the States, scored on several trick shots, while the great Manson bowled the sphere into the ring from all angles. Crain on the defence was able to dribble up to the nets time and again and Amarion towering above the rest of the players put some neat shots in from under the basket.

Philpots, of football fame, appeared on the floor for the first time this year for the intermediate team. When this player gets into condition he should catch a place on one of the two teams with little difficulty. Scarf, the captain of the smaller team, although much lighter than the opposing players, scored on several occasions, while Blumenstein, the spare defence of the senior outfit, who was playing forward on the lighter team, was the most consistent scorer for this delegation. Hodine and Snyder came through with the odd basket, both men playing back on the floor most of the time. The intermediates put up a heavy defence and the seniors once in possession of the ball found no little difficulty in breaking in toward the basket. They were able, however, after one or two tries to get through and as the game lengthened they scored quite steadily. Coach Van Wagner is developing a team that will be a tough problem for the opposition when the Intercollegiate games start. The first game was to have been today but has been postponed because of the examinations and Queen's. The schedule is not as yet finally adopted for the Intercollegiate games. The seniors will in all probability play one of their City League games a week from tonight. They have played every team in their section and won each game. The other teams, however, have been developing rapidly and there is plenty of work cut out for the Red and White warriors before the City League title is secured. The team will practice as usual next week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday in the High School gymnasium.

AT THE IMPERIAL

IMPERIAL

A real treat in music is anticipated at the Imperial next week when the Phantoon Singers will deliver songs of both the operatic and popular variety. The company consists of five stars from concert stages, including Adelyne Hood, Olive O'Neil, Rhea Valliquette, Walter Otto and Henry Harris. An artistic and pretty stage setting will enhance their vocal offering. Everybody knows Jim Donovan. He is assisted by an attractive girl named Marie Lee, who is generally called "The Dancing Butterfly". Together they offer a combination of songs and dances called "Doing Well, Thank You." Those who see Donovan and Lee get a full measure of entertainment. From the title of their new act "The Brave Coward", it may be imagined that Olive Briscoe and Al Reuh are taking their act seriously. This, however, is not the case. There is a kind of art intended to supply good cheer and song. Miss Briscoe is a talented singing and talking comedienne of a very high order and her partner, Mr. Reuh, in his line is just as capable. Smiles are the springs in the vehicle in which we all journey over life's roads. The comicities of life are the best sort of shock absorbers and it is to the comicities of life that Frank Walmsley and Mae Keating pay their attention in a singing and talking skit called "Comicities of Life." They are a happy pair who delight in making happiness for others. In "Two of the Idle Rich", Alexander and Fields portray a couple of millionaire tramps who carry their castles with them in a box car and with special songs and stories they make the millionaire tramps everybody's friends. A feast for young and old is Strassel's Wonder Seal. This Wonder Seal is a comedian. It presents a series of feats which would be difficult for any animal but are almost unbelievable for a seal.

Tom Mix "In Arabia," his latest production, will be the feature picture for the week.

AT THE "COURT"

All those who like a "girl and music" show should go to the "Court" tonight. "Miss Manhattan" is the name of the musical revue which holds the boards till tonight. It is an unusually good show of its kind and all the turns are well done. Next week the management have secured "Love and Kisses," which is reputed to be one of the best shows on the circuit. The management invite McGill patronage and furthermore—they "advertise in the Daily."

A NEW SYSTEM

The Dalton system is now well known in educational circles. Stated briefly, it is a method by which each pupil is more or less free to choose his own time, to set his own pace, and to develop personal tastes in his studies. There is little in the nature of class teaching; instead, each pupil is given a definite syllabus, to be covered in a given time, and though he consults the specialist in his particular subject, the main work is done by himself in the "laboratories."

It is claimed that the system eliminates from the school the deliberately tiresome child who aims at upsetting the class, and that it ends the battle between the will of the teacher and that of the pupil.

If the pupil is no longer guided by the teacher, what takes the place of this guidance? Does he simply follow his own free will, and if so, will this not leave him a prey to lawlessness and self-will, and lawlessness is the great moral difficulty of the age.

A superficial observer of the Dalton system may believe that it does not entail sufficient discipline. The Dalton system, however, affords training in self-reliance and in co-operation. The system offers to the children what a free state offers to its people, namely, the opportunity to learn by experience.

A wise teacher, by helping a child to analyze his experience, may lead him to the conviction that obedience to moral law brings happiness and progress, whereas disobedience brings the opposite. For example, a child repeatedly stumbling over the earlier rules of arithmetic, when attempting more difficult work, can be shown that the careless, or dishonest or muddled work of the past must be rectified before he can make progress, and that carelessness, or dishonesty, or whatever the cause may be, always brings trouble in its train. Since the pupil's experience will have taught him that this is true, and since the onus of correcting the wrong work is thrown on him, the lesson should come home to him with some force. Without some such guidance children may continue to muddle to the end, and learn little from experience. If this guidance is given, the Dalton system offers a real basis for training in obedience to moral law.

Fate used me meanly and I looked at her and laughed, That none might know how bitter was the cup I quaffed; Along came Joy and paused beside me while I sat, Saying, "I came to see what you were laughing at!"

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

AN AMAZING INTERVIEW

The fragrance of his memory shall go thundering down the dim vistas of the corridors of time. For years his signed articles have appeared in the newspapers of every nationality and locality. His dissertations on The Metaphysical Ontologists of Southern Burma, Clap-trap and Mouse-trap, The Keg of the Kid, and Ultra Sequat Quo Praetor Mores, (Rah Rah Raw), have been as the whirlpools in the channel of current opinion, the rapids in the literary rivers. Who is he? Ha! we alone know him as he is. He is Constant Reader, Esq.

This world famous 'hunka di porca' had not till last Sunday afternoon been interviewed by any of the many papers for which he had written. It was at that time (4:40 p.m.) that the reporter entering disguised as an umbrella handle, found him in his bath drinking malted milk.

"Ah, so it is you," said Constant Reader.

Seeing that further disguise was useless, the reporter replied grimly, "Yes, 'tis none other than I."

Quietly combing the fleas out of his side-whiskers, Constant Reader spoke briskly but politely:—

"My first great work appeared decades ago in that first news sheet, the London Speculator, 'Millions Now Living Will Soon Be Dead.' It aroused the profound contempt of the inmates of the famous Swills' Coffee House, and this signal success inspired me to the effort that gave the world my great treatise on Race Problems, which up until the recent appearance of Sammy Lichtman's 'Last Minute Bulletin' was the standard turf-guide."

"The zenith of my fame was not reached until my article in the Boston Boast on 'Ireland for the 'Eyetallians' started the great immigration into Korea from China. Since then, basking in the sunlight of public approval, I have rapidly warmed to my duties. Every paper in the Fourth Estate, including the New Orleans Nutkrust, Chicago Babune, le Journal Confusant, Jerusalem Daily Jewspaper, Neggen-dorfer Deutsche Klenser, La Messe (Montreal), Toronto Tellacrine, and others whose names are legion, have featured works over my name."

Many magazines also have been recipients of my efforts, where my cool logical views rivalled only in their breadth of thought by the concentrated lucidity of an intoxicated cod-fish, greet you on every hand. For was it or was it not Gladstone or Charlie Chaplin who said:

"'Tis better to have loved and bust Than never to have been fussed." With this he bade a courteous farewell, and pulling the plug was washed down the drain.

A CHRISTMAS ANECDOTE

It was a beautiful afternoon in December. The sun was gleaming on the snow and the keen, clear, merry Christmas spirit was everywhere as a genial old elderly gentleman in a blue muffer came out of a butcher shop. Under his arm he carried a brown paper parcel. His eyes fairly shone with merriment as he turned the corner. Suddenly he stopped. There confronting him and blocking his passage was a strapping youth of eighteen summers and one winter.

"Stop grandfather," he said, "who did you get that meat off of?"

But the jolly old soul had the situation well in hand. He chuckled all over as he replied, "Off of a cow!"

Bertie—It's important that I must see you tonight.

Gertie—About what?
Bertie—Eight o'clock.

SUPPOSE, tomorrow, all newspapers were discontinued. What a furore would be created. For we must have news!

Or suppose, that beginning tomorrow, the newspapers stopped running advertisements. We would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, and activities of the police and criminals of one sort or another, add little to our comfort and happiness in this age of enlightenment.

Without advertising we would remain in total ignorance of much that concerns us vitally—news of the things that have to do with the personal, every-day life of each one of us.

Some one might be selling a new, better and more economical food, or a utensil that would add immeasurably to our comfort and well-being, or some material for making shoes or clothing—but we would never know it.

Modern advertising has made and is making the world better housed, better fed, better clothed. It has increased the world's capacity for things that elevate, improve and idealize the important business of living. It is a big vital force in fostering convenient and comfortable life. Without its direction we would overlook much and therefore lose much.

Don't fail to take advantage of advertising. It will prove invaluable to you.

DELEGATES TO REASSEMBLE AT THE HALL

Meeting to Bring Workers of Local S.C.A. Together

JANUARY 25th

Object to Learn Facts Regarding Conference

A supper meeting is being planned at Strathcona Hall on Thursday, January 25, at 6 p.m. to bring together all delegates to the recent National Student Conference at Toronto, ministers, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. workers of the city, professors and students of the University, and all others who desire to attend.

The plan of the meeting is to have a few brief statements from delegates, followed by a free discussion during which there will be abundant opportunity for asking questions and for finding out the fact about the Conference, and the movement that made it possible. Many have signified their desire to know more of both. This is their opportunity. The Conference was an event of greater significance than the casually interested or indifferent individual realises. For the first time students from every section of Canada, with visitors from many countries, representing white, black and yellow races, and Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Mohammedan, and other faiths have come together to face frankly some of the outstanding issues of the present day. The bringing together of such a gathering with its wonderfully free and good-natured discussion of much disputed questions, even those of race and religion, was itself a notable achievement, and the success of it is indicative of a new temper in Canadian college life that may have a far-reaching influence.

As at Toronto, where representatives of many races and creeds shared frankly their opinions with one another, it is hoped that the meeting on the 25th may truly represent the varied elements in the University. It is open to all who care to attend.

A committee was appointed by the McGill delegation to organize groups for following up some of the subjects discussed at the Conference. The following groups have been arranged:

Industrial Problems—Led by Prof. E. M. Best.
Comparative Religions—Led by Otto Klineberg.
Nationalism and Internationalism—Prof. R. de Roure.
Science and Religion—Leader undecided.

At the close of the meeting these groups will meet for a few minutes to complete organization and arrange dates. All who wish to join one of these are especially urged to be present.

Those who desire to attend the supper should send their names to Strathcona Hall, or call Up. 1547, before the evening of Jan. 24th. Tickets will be 30c, procurable at the door. Those who do not desire supper will be welcome at 6:30.

"A laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market."—Charles Lamb.

OLD WORLD CHARM TO BE FOUND IN LONDON

If you happen to find yourself on the great highway running east and west through the heart of London and wish to escape the throng of people and the noise of traffic, you can, by turning southward at almost any point between Charing Cross and Ludgate Circus, enter a secluded region—bounded on the one side by the Strand and Fleet Street, and on the other by the Thames—which is full of old-world charm and rich in historical and literary association, and where the subdued roar of the city, if it is heard at all, only emphasizes the silence. The Temple, with its ancient round church, its lawns and flower gardens and fountain, is far-famed, but the little cluster of old-fashioned streets known as The Adelphi (named after the four brothers, adelphi, who built it), lying a little further west, between the Hotel Cecil and Charing Cross, is not so well-known.

As one walks about the Adelphi it becomes peopled with characters, real and imaginary, of bygone days. In particular one sees the pathetic figure of a small boy who is in the intervals of his work in the blacking factory close at hand wandered through below, afterwards making the locality the scene of incidents in books that became world-famous. Standing with Arthur Clennam at the corner of Adelphi Terrace, you may watch poor little Tattycoram conduct the sinister Blandis the whole length of the street to Miss Wade—that strange specimen of womanhood.

A PAUSE IN THE ROAR.

"There is always to this day," says the author of 'Little Dorrit,' writing of the Adelphi, 'a sudden pause in that place to the roar of the great thoroughfare. The many sounds become so deadened that the change is like putting cotton in the ears, or having the head thickly muffled. At that time the contrast was far greater there being no small steamboats on the river, no landing-places but slippery wooden stairs and foot-causeways, no railroad on the opposite bank, no hanging bridge or fish-market near at hand, no traffic on the nearest bridge of stone, nothing moving on the stream but watermen's wherries and coal-lighters. Long and broad black tiers of the latter, moored fast in the mud as if they were never to move again, made the shore funereal and silent after dark; and kept what little water-movements there was, far out towards mid-stream."

THE BLACKING WAREHOUSE.

In his fragment of autobiography Dickens tells us that the blacking warehouse, where before he was 12 he worked for six shillings a week, was the last house on the left-hand side of the way, at old Hungerford stairs. "It was a crazy, tumble-down old house, abutting, of course, on the river, and literally overrun with rats. . . . The counting-house was on the first floor, looking over the coal barges and the river. There was a recess in it, in which I was to sit and work. My work was to cover the pots of paste-blackening; first with a piece of oil paper, and then with a piece of blue paper; to tie them round with a string; and then to clip the paper close and neat, all round, until it looked as smart as a pot of ointment from an apothecary's shop. When a certain number of grosses of pots had attained this pitch of perfection, I was to paste on each a printed label; and then go on again with more pots. Two or three other boys were kept at similar duty downstairs on similar wages. One of them came up, in a ragged apron and a paper cap, on the first Monday morning, to show me the trick of using the string and tying the knot. His name was Bob Fagin; and I took the liberty of using his name, long afterwards, in 'Oliver Twist.'"

His relative, James Lambert, who was manager of the manufactory, arranged to teach him something in the dinner hour. "But an arrangement so incompatible with counting-house business soon died away from no fault of his or mine; and for the same reason my small work-table, and my grosses of pots, my papers, string, scissors, paste-pot, and labels, by little and little, vanished out of the recess in the counting-house, and kept company with the other small work-tables, grosses of pots, papers, string, scissors and paste-pot downstairs. It was not long before Bob Fagin and I, and another boy whose name was Paul Green, but who was currently believed to have been christened Poll (a belief which I transferred, long afterwards again, to Mr. Sweedlepie, in 'Martin Chuzzlewit'), worked generally side by side. Bob Fagin was an orphan, and lived with his brother-in-law, a waterman. Poll Green's father had the additional distinction of being a fireman, and was employed at Drury Lane theatre; where another relation of Poll's, I think his little sister, did imps in the pantomimes. . . .

MODERN CHANGES.

The blacking factory has long since disappeared, but the Adelphi remains almost exactly as it was in Dickens' day. The view from the terrace, however, has altered since he described it. The railway has crossed the river to Charing Cross; the embankment has been completed, and trams run along this broad thoroughfare; on the Surrey side of the river, by Westminster Bridge, the fine frontage of London's new County Hall stands out conspicuously.

On the western fringe of the Adelphi, at the foot of Buckingham Street, still stands the noble Watergate of York House, which marks the margin of the river before the construction of the Victoria Embankment. Its massive stonework bears the motto of the Villiers family, "Fidel coticula crux." The Watergate is all that remains of the palace designed by Inigo Jones for the first Duke of Buckingham. In York House Francis Bacon was born, while his father was Lord Keeper, and here he lived himself as Lord Keeper from 1617 to 1622. In this faded old street—a cul-de-sac but for a little gateway for pedestrians—lived Pepys and wrote his Diary, and at the corner house on the opposite side lodged Peter the Great during his strange sojourn in London.—Christian Science Monitor.

VIRGIL

By birth, by education, by temperament, Virgil stands out from all other Augustan poets as the predestined laureate of Augustus and his policy. He expresses that policy with unerring tact and felicity, but transcends it, as the work of the great poet must always transcend that of the statesman.

Virgil was a country boy. We catch glimpses of him amid the luxurious salons of the capital, but as the inspired rustic, timid, silent, ill at ease. He remained to the last, as Macrobius tells us, a Venetian of peasant parentage, reared amid the forests and the underbrush. But by virtue of this very simplicity he could and did enter into complete sympathy with the Italian policy of Augustus. This policy found in the Italian countryside with its unending toil, its simple faith, its hardy virtues, the symbol of all that was best in the Italian patrimony, which the statesman would have the rising generation, just on the threshold of a new world, claim as its birthright. Never has a poet given higher expression to that more poignant and simpler aspect of patriotism which draws its sustenance from the very breast of the land that bore it, and broods upon the austere face of the mother of men. The Georgics give us the breath of Italy, not of Rome. The Georgics are the final expression of the hold of the Italian country upon the souls of her people, upon the souls of all those pilgrims who have looked upward from the rivers and valleys of Italy toward her immemorial towns upon their hills:

adde tot egregias urbes operumque laborum; tot congesta manu praeceptis oppida saxis; fluminaque antiquos subter labentia muros.

In the Aeneid Virgil has given us an epic which is at once historical, Augustan, religious, and supremely human.

The Aeneid is an historical epic because in a very real sense its subject is the greatness of Rome.—George Vorse Fiske, in "University of Wisconsin Studies."

COMPLETE MACCABAEAN DANCE ARRANGEMENTS

The annual dance of the Maccabaeans Circle, which has been looked forward to for some time, will be held at the Venetian Gardens on Sunday, February 11. The executive of the Circle have spared no efforts to make the arrangements as complete and as satisfactory as possible, so that every one who attends is assured of that real good time which one has come to associate with Maccabaeans dances.

This year, as always, in order to assure absolute comfort, the number of tickets will be limited. These can be obtained from the treasurer, H. Batschaw, or from any other member of the executive.

Prof. (after very long and involved explanation)—Now, are there any questions?
Student—Yes, what's the time?
